

1. What was / has been your occupation before entering politics?

I just graduated Cégep this year. I will move on to University after the election, but at the moment I'm a bartender for a local restaurant.

2. Do you live in the riding and, if so, how long has it been your home?

I live in Hull-Aylmer, and I have since I was born.

3. What has been your main involvement with your community outside of work (volunteer activities, etc.)?

I've participated in several community musical productions for Philemon-Wright High School. I love to sing and you can find me at local karaoke bars.

4. In your life what event, or book, or speech, or song or even TV show has made the biggest impression on you and your political thinking? Why?

The election of Justin Trudeau in 2015. At the time I supported Trudeau. In particular I appreciated his promise to run just 3 modest deficits because it sounded sincere to me, his position on Marijuana, and his call for electoral reform. Since the election I've been very disappointed by his performance. I've seen a government that's eerily comfortable with censorship, a prime-minister who has soiled Canada's reputation abroad, and who cares more about the corporations than about the people. Justin's term has taught me that I'm not a liberal anymore, not with where he's taken the party.

5. What previous politician, (alive or dead, but not currently in parliament) is a role model for you?

I'd have to say Jean Chrétien. He had boundless charisma, great intelligence, and I appreciated his authenticity and joviality. He also started the work on paying off Canada's national debt, work that promptly ended under Stephen Harper and hasn't resumed since. Beyond that, he's a Québécois like me, and he's given me another reason to be proud of my province!

6. What policy in your party's platform do you think matters most to the people in your riding?

Without a doubt our pledge to end corporate subsidies. I know the people of Hull-Aylmer, and I don't think many of them would be pleased to hear that our government sends 14 billion of their taxpayer dollars every year. We all know that the average person needs that money more than a wealthy corporation does, and I'm shocked to see a so-called "Liberal" party make an argument for trickle-down economics.

7. Recent polls suggest many Canadians are disillusioned with politics. If elected, what would you do to address those concerns?

The People's Party is the solution! Canadians are sick of the other parties making countless promises to specific groups of people to win their votes. The PPC really is doing politics differently. We're not giving endless promises, instead we're proposing a vision for Canada that's based on the values we share, one that all Canadians can get behind. Those values are Freedom, Fairness, Respect, and Responsibility. If elected, we intend to govern with integrity and to show the Canadian people that their voice matters again.
